

BDFPA JANUARY 2012 NEWSLETTER

Extending my warm wishes to all our members for a fabulous NEW YEAR!

Firstly, a message from your President.....

At the end of my first year as president I would like to congratulate all members on what has been an excellent lifting year. There have been many excellent competitions at all levels and I wish to further express my thanks to all those who have helped in any administrative role from National Council level down to the person running the score desk at a Divisional. Your input however small at any level has a massive effect within the organisation. Membership has seen many new lifters to the BDFPA and we welcome them and all those who will join us next year as we continue to grow. Drug testing has reached new levels with nearly 100 tests completed this year alone. Within this there have been 2 failures and having discussed with the athletes and analysed their test results both have fallen foul via over the counter supplements that have contained stimulants banned by WADA. To ALL lifters you are responsible for the supplements you use and should seek advice from the manufacturer or the WADA web site BEFORE using anything that you may not be sure of on the label. There have been a few retirements this year, of note Mark Norton who has given so much to the sport as both a lifter and during his tenure as president, of course ably assisted by Sharron. From all of the members, a special thank you for all you have done and the part both of you played in getting the organisation where it is today. Here is looking forward to another excellent year within the BDFPA.

Neil Thomas

And one from myself!

Probably unlike Neil, 2011 has been an eye-opening year for me. From around twenty years of previously simply turning up, competing and leaving (usually early!) with a winning trophy – I now see the bigger picture through the eyes of an official and a competition promoter! I so absolutely appreciate all the hard work that must have gone into the two-hundred plus competitions I paid for/travelled to/lifted/received a trophy/went home, etc – that was pure fun! From the other side of the fence, as it were, organising even relatively small competitions is still great fun, but also serious work! I am absolutely up for whatever I have to do to create a viable and impressive National Single event on 19th February for you all.

I can confirm that our World President Wim Backelant will provide his help and support for this event, and I have subsequently arranged two nights hotel accommodation for both Wim and his colleague. I am extremely grateful for their help.

I have had to further excel at multi-tasking with always enormous input from my patients and forwarding the information you all need. I am now in touch via mobile wifi no matter where I am – taxis, trains, airports etc - which helps a lot as I no longer have to return home to fifty-plus emails! I totally appreciate the effort from everyone who took on this role previously – the following information was sourced from Andrew Cominos and Eric West – apologising for any gaps. I wanted it to take pride of place on our website in 2011 but, somehow our hard-working, multi-tasking webmaster never edited (!) so my personal accolades to predecessors below:

Reminder to all competition promoters who are organising a Divisional/other event, etc relative to what is required in respect to lifters likely to break – and claim – existing records. These are - scale calibration, (a certificate dated within one year of competition) bars/weights used on the platform(s) to be weighed on these. The organiser is to submit such information within thirty days of the event to Pete Gaskin or myself. Neither Eleiko nor Ivanko equipment need undergo such calibration. Appropriate referees are to be adjudicating. It is also a requirement from the successful lifter to actually ‘claim’ his/her record by informing their divisional records officer and our British records officer, Pete Gaskin.

I promised Eddie Bennett that I would mention his ‘emergency qualifier’ to be held on 28th January, 2012 at Bradford University – pay on day, just £10, no trophies, weigh-in 9-10.30 am, lift off 11 am. Please remember to have your 2012 BDFPA membership card with you – or your number secured from Manon Bradley. Qualifiers at this event who wish to partake at British Single event on 19th February must inform me by telephone/email within 36 hours with their details – swiftly followed by completed entry form and fee.

NEWS YOU ABSOLUTELY NEED TO BE REMINDED OF!

LIFTERS USING ANY FORM OF SUPPLEMENTATION

Though I have alluded to possible contamination in a previous article, I wish to stress the importance of checking your supplementation.

As you are already aware, last year two of our lifters tested positive for a stimulant – clearly stated as banned on the WADA list.

Sadly, there has also been some blatant steroid abuse, aptly picked up via our current drug-testing procedures. The onus has always been attributed to lifters to check out anything they ingest – other than food, including orthodox-prescribed drugs/medication.

I personally intend to continually urge you to apply caution in your non-food choices within my Newsletters. Please DO consult the WADA banned list, clearly listed on our website. Neil Thomas and I are happy to help and advise.

The link earlier made to an absolutely amazing all-in-one protein/recovery supplement – totally endorsed by myself – under our ‘NEWS’ section – Ignite Ultra V – will provide cohesive results for optimal gains - do check this out via www.natures-whey.co.uk - I am exceptionally pleased to announce that the Director, Ashley Law has agreed to provide sponsorship for my British Single event.

I’m really sorry to inform that one of my fourteen bone tumours has been re-activated via 2011 twin surgeries - these to repair rotator cuff tear. Surgeon, at dates, believed close benign tumour, would not affect outcome. Sadly, we now know differently. This Newsletter has mostly been produced via my bed in German clinic. Both surgeries absolutely impacted on my previous ‘cancer-free’ status. If I fail to turn this around, the prognosis is poor. My energies go for survival, absolutely! Alongside my nutritional protocol, the vaccine therapy being applied in Germany, and likewise by myself in UK, is a major lifeline now.

I am extremely fortunate to have availability of this biological immune modifier therapy for which I would normally need to attend clinics in Mexico or Canada - Absolutely grateful to my private medics in Germany for providing this availability to me.

Currently refusing morphine for pain relief, instead am working on a nutritional protocol. Medics have just re-sanctioned limited use of Pete Gaskin's laser machine, which he kindly loaned me last year. I now have a large tear as the tumour-weakened area will not fully allow surgical repair to be sustained. Further surgery is not an option.

My affected arm's function has worsened dramatically over the last few weeks. In fact it virtually only moves normally at all unless elbow is supported. Hence at time of writing it seems extremely unlikely I can make the scant amount of 25kg bench press on 19th February. I have narrowed my grip enormously and aiming for a half kg increase once each week. I'm at 21.5kg, (8th January) – who knows, I may just get there! However, I am good to go for pulling – though cautioned to factor in the energy deficit to my potential healing. I will evaluate this over the next few weeks. If I am unable to lift at all on 19th, at least I will be more available to referee/assist Wim, etc for the whole event! It's a 'day-at-a-time' situation for now until major review later this month.

When I sent out my end-of-2011 West Mids Newsletter, I was amazed that I now have double the members since being voted in as local NC. This prompted me to ask Manon Bradley for a breakdown of where we all are located and, as she says 'give or take a few': This is last month's breakdown. Thought it might be of interest to you all.

Update on our future book on drug-free power-lifting, which I am compiling/publishing: I am now making progress with lifters outside UK, as Yulia Segal has provided me with more email addresses. It definitely will be a global book now! Please continue to forward me your training/nutrition regimens asap.

It is my hope that this Newsletter will become more 'user-friendly' with lifters contributing, similar to previous 'Raw Power' – hence I requested input and here it is!

The following from Manon Bradley -

Changes to application process

I was delighted that the AGM unanimously voted for the Association to adopt (at no cost to us) an online membership renewal system.

Over the next few months I shall be working with a company called IMG to redevelop our website which will include new membership pages.

In future when you wish to renew your membership all you need to do is to go to these pages on the website, complete an online form and pay via your debit or credit card. No more chasing around getting postal orders or trying to find your cheque book.

This new system will hugely speed up the membership process which as you know can take several weeks - especially in January when everyone wants their new card for qualifier competitions.

For now - keep using the paper forms which are downloadable on the website. As soon as the new system is working it will become clear on the website.

For those of you who don't wish to pay online you can still use the paper based system (for as long as cheques still exist!)

This from an excellent lifter I refereed almost one year ago in Wales –

Lecithin supplements – do we need them?
Sue Bethell, BSc (Hons) Nutrition

The first clue comes from a textbook definition of lecithin – a phospholipid manufactured by the liver and also found in many foods; a major constituent of cell membranes (Sizer & Whitney, 2000).

- so our liver can manufacture lecithin
- and it is also in many foods

Phospholipids are one of the three main classes of lipid found in our food and in our bodies (the other two being triglycerides and sterols). Lecithin is the most abundant phospholipid in nature. The defining characteristic of a lipid is its insolubility in water.

A significant feature of all phospholipids is their amphipathic nature – they have one end that is attracted to water but the other end is not. It is this feature that provides the structural integrity of cell membranes and protects the inside of the cell from its aqueous environment.

The amphipathic nature of phospholipids also means they are excellent emulsifying agents and it is this property that gives them a role in lipid transport. Dietary fats must be transported to the small intestine for digestion and absorption and once absorbed must be carried in the blood to target tissues where they will be broken down by enzymes and either oxidised for energy or reformed as fat for storage.

Many lecithin supplement producers and distributors make claims such as it can help burn fat or it breaks up fat and cholesterol. They do not provide any scientific evidence to support their claims. Fat is broken up into its constituent parts, free fatty acids and glycerol, by enzymes and not by lecithin. Lecithin's role is in the transport of fats. Free fatty acids can then be converted into energy (burning fat) through a series of complex biochemical reactions. Lecithin is not part of these reactions.

One of the components of lecithin is choline, a precursor to the production of acetylcholine which is a neurotransmitter. Claims that lecithin influences memory function and may impact on neurological diseases stems from the presence of choline. Research to date, however, remains inconclusive.

Lecithin is so widely found in foods that deficiencies are unlikely outside of the laboratory. Rich sources of dietary lecithin are egg yolks and soy beans, but other foods such as grains, wheat germ, legumes and fish are also good sources.

The Department of Health's panel of experts did not find any convincing evidence that it is necessary to include other organic substances such as choline in the normal human diet and therefore did not give further consideration to lecithin (DOH, 1991).

In summary, lecithin transports fats in our bodies but it does not break up fat or burn fat. Claims of weight loss benefits are not supported by scientific evidence. Although lecithin has a role in neurological functions the usefulness of supplementation remains inconclusive. Not only can our liver produce lecithin, it is so widely available in foodstuffs that a deficiency is unlikely, so much so that government advisors have not seen fit to provide dietary reference values.

BDFPA Coaching Award

The first BDFPA Coaching Award is proposed for 30th June and 1st July at Bradford University.

The course is aimed at lifters without any previous coaching experience and / or coaching qualifications.

Complete details are due to follow on the BDFPA website / message board and initial entries will be required by the beginning on March 2012.

Anyone interested in taking the course should contact Chris Morgan by email chunky@chunkymuscle.com

Two from Paul Rees –

BDFPA Youth/junior/new lifter Development 2012

1. Our President Neil Thomas has directed and encouraged me to SET UP AND RUN an annual British Schools, Colleges and University Power-lifting and Single Lifts Championships. (I am also very keen on this idea)-

Probably in late October or early November this year at Bournemouth University or Oakmead College. Thereafter open to bids!!

2. Recruit (via divisions??) “New Lifter” NAVIGATORS (members with a current CRB if appropriate) whose job it is to take potential new lifters - making inquiries about joining “through the rigmarole” and getting them joined up to the BDFPA and into competition with us.

3. Set up Regional squad days (where possible only) for new lifters and/ or those wanting help with training/technique and competition rules Scotland/North/EM/NM/WM/SC/SE/SW/WALES/LONDON. We have people in most places that come to mind immediately.

4, Train up the next generation of junior referees and get them examined and into action.

5. Set up a junior match verses the Combined Forces, and Police and Emergency Services (NHS, Fire personnel).

6. Present to the executive ideas on School and College memberships for young lifters starting to compete up to Divisional level.

Please send in offers of help.

Regards, Paul

Unsuccessful candidates may attend seminar with SC rep and attempt exam again.

SC rep prepared to undertake this process at a mutually convenient time with candidates.

Exam to be held in Bournemouth unless group (5) exam arranged elsewhere.

Regards, Paul.

This from Gren Elmore, our oldest lifter and Master 10 World Champion!

My first official B.A.W.L.A (as then was) weightlifting competition – Power-lifting not yet invented, took place in a gym in West Bromwich; it was, as I recall, a match between two clubs situated in Birmingham and West Bromwich. That was in the year 1950.....to save you working it out, that was sixty-two years ago (!)

I am now an eighty-five years old power lifting, Masters ten.

This last sentence provides conclusive, irrefutable proof that insanity prevails in my family (!)

On February 1st, 1985 – the IPF secretary, then Arnold Bostrom issued a bulletin saying that the current variation of the Round system would be used at World and European Championships and this is virtually how the rules stand today. We have had variations in the commands for beginning the lifts, such as the clap to start the bench press and a further clap to begin the press part of the lift; it was then amended to just one clap to begin the movement.

Some referees brought along their own adaptations of the clap by banging two pieces of wood together or a hinged contrivance of the same.

Now, of course, we are all familiar with the happily obvious verbal and hand signals and, on reflection, makes things a lot easier for both lifter and centre referee.

Prior to this formula which we now employ was the ‘rising bar’ system – and you may not believe what I am about to relate, but it is nevertheless true.

The ‘rising bar’ system was inherited from the Olympic set-up, used world wide in Weightlifting competitions – which went like this:- Lifter A would nominate his first attempt, if successful lifter B would follow with a higher weight on the bar and so on to lifter D, etc – which if you consider this order of lifting was quite sound, each competitor advancing in weight following the other BUT – here is where things begin to fall apart, when the Rounds system was transferred to power-lifting, assume for example lifter A fails his first attempt, he was
